Homework 5  10 points

A system for Genome Engineering called Cre-Lox has been around for about 20 years. Recently, the CRISPR–Cas9 system has exploded on the scene as a system for genome editing. Explain how each system works, how they are used and why one may be better than the other for specific applications.