

Contents

Preface	ix
Introduction: John Borneman, “German Sacrifice Today”	3
Chapters
1. Marcus Funck, “The Meaning of Dying: East Elbian Noble Families as ‘Warrior-Tribes’ in the Nineteenth and Twentieth Centuries”	26
2. Brian E. Crim, “‘Was it All Just a Dream?’ German-Jewish Veterans and the Confrontation with völkisch Nationalism in the Interwar Period”	64
3. Greg Eghigian, “Injury, Fate, Resentment, and Sacrifice in German Political Culture, 1914–1939”	90
4. Michael Geyer, “‘There Is a Land Where Everything Is Pure: Its Name Is Land of Death’: Some Observations on Catastrophic Nationalism”	118
5. Uli Linke, “The Violence of Difference: Anti-Semitism and Misogyny”	148
6. Silke Wenk, “Sacrifice and Victimization in the Commemorative Practices of Nazi Genocide after German Unification—Memorials and Visual Metaphors”	196
List of Contributors	227