

CONTENTS

| | |
|--|-----|
| List of Illustrations | vi |
| Acknowledgments | vii |
| CHAPTER | |
| 1. Introduction | 1 |
| 2. The Origins and Persistence of Mahanian Doctrine | 9 |
| 3. The Airpower Pragmatists: The Fleet Problems and Naval Aviation | 33 |
| 4. Employing the “Engines of Fulfillment”: The Fleet Problems and Submarine Warfare | 61 |
| 5. Getting a Grip on the “Jellyfish”: The Fleet Problems and Antisubmarine Warfare | 76 |
| 6. A Strategic Afterthought: The Fleet Problems and Amphibious Warfare | 88 |
| 7. Reexamining Mahan: The Fleet Problems and Sea Control | 110 |
| 8. Conclusion | 134 |
| Appendix. Chiefs of Naval Operations and Commanders-in- Chief, U.S. Fleet, 1919–42 | 145 |
| Notes | 147 |
| Bibliography | 175 |
| Index | 185 |

ILLUSTRATIONS

| | |
|---|-----|
| Adm. Edward Eberle | 34 |
| USS Langley | 44 |
| Rear Adm. Louis Nulton | 55 |
| Aircraft carriers with the fleet, 1930s | 57 |
| USS Lexington | 58 |
| USS S-1 | 65 |
| Adm. Samuel S. Robison | 97 |
| Early amphibious exercise, 1930s | 108 |
| Adm. Robert Coontz | 118 |
| Adm. William Veazie Pratt | 122 |
| Adm. Joseph Mason Reeves | 127 |
| Adm. Adolphus Andrews | 139 |