

Contents

List of Illustrations	ix
Foreword, by Tobin Armstrong	xi
Preface	xiii
1. Genesis of a Fighting Man	1
2. Blood on the Palo Alto Prairie	9
3. Gunfire at Las Cuevas	17
4. Engagement at Espantosa Lake	25
5. John King Fisher Again	37
6. Facing the Man Killer	47
7. Action in Round Rock	63
8. Pioneer Ranchman	73
9. Rancher Amid the Rails	83
Afterword, by Elmer Kelton	101
Appendix A: John B. Armstrong and the Travis Rifles	105
Appendix B: Serving with McNelly	109
Appendix C: Serving under Hall	111
Appendix D: Texas Volunteer Guard	113
Appendix E: Armstrong Family Tree	114
Notes	115
Selected Bibliography	135
Index	141

Illustrations

Frontispiece

John B. Armstrong as a young man, probably in the mid-1870s

Foreword

Tobin and Anne L. Armstrong

Chapter 1

John B. Armstrong in the late 1870s

Mary Helena “Mollie” Durst

Chapter 2

Capt. Leander H. McNelly, circa 1872

Map of South Texas, 1870–1915

Chapter 3

Juan N. Cortina, ca. 1862–1865

Chapter 4

Espantosa Lake in 1997

Historical marker at Espantosa Lake, 1997

Chapter 5

Capt. Jesse L. “Red” Hall, 1873

Chapter 6

John Wesley Hardin (“Swain”), Florida, 1875

William Dudley Chipley, circa 1865

The capture of John Wesley Hardin

Chapter 7

The Sam Bass gang, about 1876

Mollie Durst about the time of her marriage

Chapter 8

John B. Armstrong, circa 1895

The Armstrong residence at 2610 Whitis Avenue, Austin

The Chicago Ranch house

Chapter 9

John B. Armstrong, 1890s

A major and four Texas Ranger captains, circa 1900

Robert J. Kleberg, circa 1875

x

ILLUSTRATIONS

Armstrong as a Special Ranger, circa 1889

The Armstrong family, circa 1890

Major Armstrong with sons John and Charley, circa 1896

John B. Armstrong shortly before his death in 1913

Grave marker of John B. Armstrong

John B. Armstrong relaxing with grandchildren, circa 1912

